Where to recycle waste from your business

Some Oxfordshire district councils collect trade waste and recycling for a charge. You can also pay to have it collected by a private company.

Alternatively, you can pay to dispose of your waste at some of our Waste Recycling Centres or at a privately owned waste site.

What is Trade Waste and Duty of Care?

Trade Waste is defined as waste arising from any trade or business, industrial or commercial activities.

All businesses have a legal Duty of Care to ensure their waste is disposed of safely, appropriately and legally, either by themselves or by an Environment Agency licensed waste carrier.

Trade waste cannot be taken to an Oxfordshire Household Waste Recycling Centre unless that site has a specified trade waste facility, for which a charge will be made. Please use the contact details overleaf for more information.

Local authorities may prosecute businesses that deposit their waste as household waste, either through household kerbside waste collections or at Household Waste Recycling Centres.

There are organisations that will reuse or recycle your unwanted business waste. There is sometimes no charge at all, depending on quantities. Before you send your business waste to landfill, why not check the details overleaf and find out what you can save in disposal costs?

Getting the paperwork right

Businesses that are contracted to carry somebody else's waste must hold a valid Waste Carriers' Licence. You do not need a Waste Carriers' Licence to carry waste from your own business unless it is construction waste. To check this, or to apply for a licence, contact The Environment Agency on 08708 506506 or visit www.environment-agency.gov.uk

All transfers of waste between your business and another business should be recorded using a Waste Transfer Note. This will contain a description of the waste, names and addresses of both businesses, and the registration number of the waste carrier. If someone offers to take away your waste but will not provide a Waste Transfer Note, it is likely that they will fly-tip your waste. As well as seeking to prosecute the fly-tipper, local authorities will also seek to prosecute the producer of the waste for failing in their Duty of Care.

Please use the contact details overleaf for more information.

Van and trailer permit scheme

Residents who need to use a commercial-type vehicle or trailer to take their household waste to a Household Waste Recycling Centre can apply for a free permit. Size and weight restrictions apply.
